BREAKING THE ICE

The new girl in your class seems very interesting and you would like to get to know her better. The guy at the skate park does some amazing tricks and you would like him to show you how. But, whenever the opportunity to talk to them comes up, you can't think of anything to say. Your palms sweat, you blush, and you look away.

Whether you are starting a new school, going to a party where you don't know anyone or want to approach a person you fancy, you often need to break the ice in order to start a friendly conversation. Breaking the ice means saying or doing something to stop feeling shy or uncomfortable around someone you don't know very well. The reason you feel this way is that you don't know how the other person will react but don't let it get you down!

You shouldn't worry. Almost everyone feels uncomfortable when they first meet other people. The following tips can help you out.

 Smile: When you smile, people think you are friendly and easy to talk to. They are also very likely to smile back and help you feel more comfortable about starting a conversation.

 Develop interests: The best way to have interesting conversations is to be an interesting person! Get involved in activities and talk about them. Make sure you have something to add to a conversation.

 Be positive: Everybody likes to be around happy people. Try to always look on the bright side of life and to see something positive even in negative situations. People will enjoy your positive energy and benefit from it. Also, be confident. If you like yourself, others will probably like you, too.

 Be a good listener: Develop listening skills. Don't take over the conversation and don't only speak about yourself. Ask other people questions about themselves, too. This way they'll know you're interested in them.

 Get out there: Don't avoid being around new people just because you feel uncomfortable. If you stay in a situation, you'll get used to it. It's not easy, but it's worth it. After all, the other person may want to talk to you as well – but be too shy to break the ice!

4  Explain the words in bold. Use some in the correct form to complete the sentences.

- Laura's very shy. She always when people talk to her.
- I think Andy Kim. He's always looking at her in class.
- We from what he said to us, as his advice helped us.
- You shouldn't talking to people you don't know.

1 What is social etiquette?

- customs & rules of polite behaviour
- customs or beliefs which have existed for a long time

2 Read the title of the text and the headings under the pictures. What do you think people in the UK do in these situations? Listen and read to find out.

3 Answer the questions.

- How do the British greet someone for the first time?
- How do they greet friends and relatives?
- What can you talk about with a British person?
- What should you do when you visit a British person?

Social Etiquette in the UK

The British are famous for their language, sense of humour and, of course, politeness. So, when you are in the UK, make sure you respect the social etiquette in the following situations.

British people are quite reserved when greeting one another. A handshake is the most common form of greeting when you meet someone for the first time. It is only when you greet close friends or relatives that you would kiss them on the cheek or give them a hug. The British may also call you by many different 'affectionate' names, such as "dear", "chuck", "mate", "guv", "son" or "love". Do not be offended; this is quite normal.

The British like their privacy, so not all topics are safe for small talk. Avoid asking people about their age, religion, politics, marital status, weight or how much they earn. Instead, acceptable small talk topics are family, films, television, sport, studies, food, hobbies and of course, the weather!

When you visit people at home, make sure you are on time. It's also nice to take a gift for your hosts, such as a bunch of flowers or a box of chocolates. A British person might say 'come and see me soon' or 'drop in anytime'. However, you must always phone before you visit someone.

Completing a text (gap filling)

Read the title and the text quickly to get the gist. Read the text again, one sentence at a time, focusing on the words before and after each gap and think of the word that fits best. Read the completed text again to make sure it makes sense. This way, you will minimise the number of mistakes you make.

- 3 Read the text and complete the missing words. Compare with your partner. Explain the words in bold.

- 4 THINK! Change the following "you" statements into "I feel" statements. Use the adjectives bad, upset, annoyed, disappointed.

- 2 You're late again! You're so unreliable!
- 3 You're always telling lies!
- 4 You never listen to me!

► I feel bad because we don't hang out any more.

- 5 Listen to and read the text again. Your friend gets angry very easily. Use the ideas in the text to advise him/her how to control his/her anger and resolve a conflict.

Dealing with

CONFLICT

Losing friends is about as easy as making friends if you don't know 1) to deal with anger and conflict. Conflict is part of everyone's life. It will show up at school, at work and 2) home. It's OK to feel angry, frustrated, annoyed, disappointed or sad. These feelings are natural, but it's how you deal with 3) that makes the difference. Some people scream, shout, swear¹, call people names, try to get back at or even hit the person who has hurt them. Others do their best to keep away from disagreements, 4) very few deal with conflicts successfully.

Resolving conflict is a step-by-step process. Before you start discussing the problem, cool off, count to 10, take a deep breath and imagine a relaxing place. Then, say what's really bothering you. While doing that, watch how you express yourself. Don't blame or accuse. Share how you feel by using "I" statements. For example, don't say "You are always bossing me around," but "I feel frustrated because you don't pay attention to what I think."

You want people to hear your opinion so make sure you practise what you preach². Listen carefully to the 5) person and accept that he or she might see the problem in a different way. Be flexible and open-minded, willing to apologise, forgive and move on.

¹ use bad language, ² 3/4. do as you say

6  Project: Work in pairs. Find the opposites of the words below and write a similar poem about arguing. Read the poem aloud.

• Sad • Bad

• Go • Slow

• Don't • Won't

It's lunchtime at school and you're heading for the canteen, but what will you have to eat? Will you have a sandwich and an apple, or maybe a hot meal? Things are a little different in Japan. Children open their lunchboxes to find rice shaped like footballs, eggs that look like rabbits or flower-shaped carrots all packed up in an "obento"!

An obento, or bento, is one of the oldest food traditions in Japan. Basically, it is lunch served in a box. Obento boxes have been part of Japanese society since the 5th century, when people used to take a packed lunch with them to work. Bentos have become very popular since then and you can buy them almost anywhere nowadays: at theatres, airports and even at train stations.

An obento usually consists of four parts rice, three parts meat or fish (fried or grilled), two parts vegetables (pickled¹, boiled or steamed) and one part fruit. It should be nourishing and healthy, but it must be appealing too. You often see food shaped like flowers, animals and sometimes even cartoon characters! Mothers take great pride in creating 'school-bentos' for their children.

Nursery schools have established regulations for an obento. Food should be easy to eat with chopsticks or fingers, portions should be small and it should be pleasing to the eye. It should also include food that the children would not normally eat so that they won't become fussy eaters.

The Japanese have always looked upon the mother as one of the main influences on a child's success. Taking time to prepare their children's food shows their love for them.

And what happens if a Japanese mum runs out of ideas? There are almost 400 magazines available to help them get inspired!

BUY NOTHING DAY

People have been celebrating 'Buy Nothing Day' for about three decades. It started in 1993 in Canada and is now an international event in 55 countries. It has always fallen on the day after Thanksgiving in the US and on November 26th in the rest of the world. On this day, people try their best not to buy anything at all for the whole day. The idea is to make people stop and think about what they buy and how their spending habits affect the Earth's natural environment. Just a little effort can make a big difference. Let's take a look at what happens on Buy Nothing Day around the world...

MONTREAL, Canada

Today we're celebrating Buy Nothing Day at our school by holding an Eco-bazaar. We have been working hard on it all week. All the students have brought in a few items from home that are still in good condition. We receive coupons in return for each item. Now we are using the coupons to swap for other things.
Erica, 15

BIRMINGHAM, England

We have decided to do simple things on Buy Nothing Day. We've walked to school instead of taking the bus and we've asked our parents not to go to the supermarket.

KWLH

Before you read the text, make a KWLH (Know-Want to know-Learn-How) chart. This will help you activate prior knowledge, understand the text better and enrich your knowledge.

2 Look at the chart below and copy it into your notebooks. Read the title of the text and complete the first two rows of the chart.

What I already know
What I want to know
What I learned
How I can learn more

Where does it come from?

Paper: As you know, paper comes from trees. But you may not know that it takes about three tonnes of wood chips to get one tonne of paper pulp. Can you imagine the number of trees needed every year just to make paper? You might also be surprised to know that we wash, bleach and colour this paper pulp using chemicals that harm the environment.

Plastic: Plastic comes from oil. Now, we all know that the oil industry causes pollution. Furthermore, the manufacturing of plastic bags uses a lot of electricity which is not good for the environment.

Where does it end its life?

Paper: Your paper bag can end up in a landfill site where it will take years to break down. If you take it to a recycling centre, it means more energy and chemicals are used. Either way, there's waste.

Plastic: Like paper, plastic bags often end up in landfills. In fact, in the UK, for example, we recycle only 1 in 200 plastic bags. So what happens to the rest? We throw them away. A plastic bag takes more than 1,000 years to decompose. In the meantime, plastic bags cause over 100,000 sea turtles and other marine animals to die every year, when animals mistake them for food.

The verdict

We use large amounts of natural resources to make both paper and plastic bags. Both bags end up in the landfill anyway, so neither of them is the winner. The best way to carry your shopping and protect the environment at the same time is to choose a reusable fabric bag. Reusable bags take minimal energy to make, are light and last for years. Go online and find out more!

3   Which type of bag do statements 1-5 refer to? Listen, read and check.

Reading

- 1 What do you know about hot-air balloons? Read the title and the introduction of the text. What do you expect the text to be about? Read, listen and check.

Animals in the Air

Can you believe that the history of the hot-air balloon began with a sheep, a duck and a chicken?

One day in 1777, Joseph Montgolfier was relaxing in front of the fire with his laundry drying nearby. After a while, he noticed that one of his shirts had started to float upwards. The young man was curious about what was happening, so he threw some small pieces of paper into the fireplace to see if the same thing happened to them. When he saw them coming out of the chimney, he came to the conclusion that smoke had the power to lift things up and carry them through the air. Joseph loved science and wanted to become an inventor, so he started trying to think of a craft that would be able to capture smoke and heat and lift people off the ground. Along with his brother, Jacques, he began performing experiments on something that later became the first hot-air balloon.

The Montgolfier brothers quickly realised that it was heat and not smoke that had the power to lift things. On 19th September 1783, they presented their first hot-air balloon which was made from paper and cloth. They burned some straw underneath it and the heat caused the balloon to float. As this was its first trip, the Montgolfier brothers were too nervous to go up in the balloon themselves. So, instead they put a sheep, a duck and a chicken in the basket that hung below the balloon for the two-mile journey.

The new invention was a great success and the animals landed safe and sound. A huge crowd, including some members of the French Royal Family gathered to watch the balloon floating high in the sky. Shortly afterwards, the brothers asked the king for permission to send men up in the balloon. The king agreed, and the first flight with human passengers took place in Paris on 21st November 1783, with great success. The balloon reached a height of around 150 metres as it floated over the Paris rooftops, starting a long tradition of hot-air ballooning.

Have you ever made a mistake that actually turned out to be something good? Believe it or not, a lot of things we use every day are the result of accidents! Here is one of these amazing stories!

Scottish scientist Alexander Fleming had been experimenting with bacteria for a long time before he made his most important discovery in 1928. Being a very sloppy¹ scientist, he used to leave his culture plates² all around his messy³ lab and then forget about them. One day, he noticed that there was some mould⁴ on one of the bacteria samples he had left by an open window. He took a closer look and saw that there was nothing around the mould. This made him realise that the mould was able to destroy harmful bacteria. He had discovered penicillin.

Since then, his discovery has helped millions of people around the world recover from illnesses caused by bacteria.

1 Read the theory. Are there similar structures in Russian? Find examples highlighted in the text above.

We use the Past Perfect (had + past participle) for

- a past action which happened before another past action. He had left when Jane called.

We use the Past Perfect Continuous (had + been + -ing form) to put emphasis on the duration of a past action which finished before another past action. He had been driving for three hours before he reached the village.

The Past Perfect Continuous is the past equivalent of the Present Perfect Continuous.

AN UNUSUAL GALLERY

1 It was a beautiful afternoon in the woods near the French village of Montignac. The sky was blue and autumn leaves covered the ground. Four friends strolled happily among the tall trees, telling stories about treasures that people had hidden in the forest.

2 As they were walking, one of the boys fell over. When the others ran to help him, they saw that there was a hole in the ground. Could this be a tunnel with hidden treasures in it? The boys started to dig, trying to make the hole bigger so that they could climb in and have a look. By this time though, it was getting dark and they didn't have a torch, so they decided to come back early the next day.

3 They returned to the woods before school. One by one, the boys lit their torches and crawled into the small dark tunnel. After about ten minutes, the boy who was at the front let out a loud gasp. When he pointed his torch at the wall, everyone was amazed to see the walls covered with colourful pictures of horses, deer and oxen. The friends ran quickly to school and told their teacher all about their fantastic discovery. She called an expert who went immediately to examine the paintings.

4 Later that day, their teacher asked the boys to stay behind after school. They thought that they had done something wrong, but they were relieved when they saw their teacher's smiling face. The expert had confirmed that the boys were the first modern people to lay eyes upon the famous Lascaux paintings which were at least 17,000 years old. They felt really proud.

Stories

1 a Look at the picture and the title of the story. What could the story be about? Describe the picture.

b Ask 4-5 questions about the story. Listen and check if you can answer them.

- To write a story, we first decide on the type of story, the plot and the main characters. Our story can be a comedy, an adventure, a fairy tale, etc. We normally use past tenses in stories.
- In the first paragraph, we write when and where the event happened, who the main characters in the story were and what happened first.
- In the main body, we describe the events in the order they happened, leading to the climax event (the most important event). We normally use linking words (as soon as, while, before, etc) to show the sequence of events.
- In the conclusion, we write what happened in the end and how the people in the story felt.

2 Read the theory box. What type of story is the one in Ex. 1? Does it follow the plan below?

BRITISH BANKNOTES

1 British money is called the 'pound', or sometimes 'pounds sterling'. The word 'sterling' probably with a little silver coin 1000 years ago. A 'pound' referred how many coins you needed to make a pound in weight. Back then, as now, this was worth a lot; check the price of 400 grams of silver today!

2 It was a nuisance to carry round so many coins, so people put them in a bank. The bank gave notes to their customers, representing a number of pounds. Customers used these notes to buy things from a merchant. The merchant could take the note to the bank and exchange it for silver coins. In fact, British banknotes still say 'I promise to pay ...' on them, and then their value – followed by the of the Chief Cashier of the Bank of England.

3 Of course, the notes don't get you pounds of silver any more! For many years, they have been In the 1960s, British banknotes began to carry pictures of famous British people on them.

4 These included Elizabeth Fry, a prison reformer; Sir Edward Elgar, a and Adam Smith, an economist. These pictures change from time to time, but there is one person who is always on a British banknote: the King or Queen!

5 These pictures make the notes , but they have another purpose.

6 They are full of details that make them difficult to copy, or 'counterfeit'. There are four British banknotes: £5, or the 'fiver'; £10, or the 'tenner'; £20 and £50.

7 If you are wondering why there is no £100 note, or even higher – well, most banks do not like to create high-value notes, it is because it makes it easier for to steal large amounts.

Plymouth

The Master Thief of the Unknown World

In 1577, five ships left Plymouth with Francis Drake and 160 other men on board, to sail around the world. Three years later, only one ship, the Golden Hind, returned to England.

5 After crossing the Atlantic, Drake left two ships on the east coast of South America. With the three remaining ships, he then found a new route around the bottom of the continent, but when they reached the Pacific, violent storms destroyed one of the 10 ships and caused another to turn back to England.

Next, the Golden Hind sailed north along the west coast of South America, attacking Spanish ports. This was because, at that time, the Spanish controlled all the gold from 'The New World' and Drake wanted it. Drake also captured Spanish ships and stole their 15 maps and treasure. The Spanish called him 'The Master Thief of the Unknown World'.

Finally, Drake sailed to North America and then crossed the Pacific to the Moluccas¹ in the southwest. Eventually, he sailed round the southern 20 tip of Africa and arrived in England in September, 1580.

When Drake returned, he was knighted² by Elizabeth I. He was the first Englishman to sail around the world. He had made many discoveries and had 25 brought back an amazing fortune in treasure.

Appearance

- 4 Find the word that does not match. Check in the Word List.

- 1 He's got small/protruding/pointed/spotty ears.
- 2 He's got a straight/curly/crooked/pointed nose.
- 3 I can't stand my hair. It's too frizzy/curly/round/straight.
- 4 She's slim/thick/overweight/thin.
- 5 His eyebrows are thick/thin/bushy/short.

Think of a cartoon/fictional character or draw your own. Describe him/her to the class. Use the words in bold above.

- ▶ Peter Pan has got pointed ears, thin eyebrows and a straight nose. His hair is short and straight, and he's slim.

It's Monday morning and while you are getting dressed, you're looking at yourself in the mirror. 'I'm too skinny. I'd like to put on a little weight and be a bit taller and more muscular,' you think. 'I also wouldn't mind thicker hair, longer legs, better teeth and a smaller nose. Speaking of my nose, is that a pimple on it? Oh, here we go again! I can't go out. I can't stand people staring at me.'

Do these remarks sound familiar? Almost everyone would like to change something about their bodies. Teenagers feel that way quite often because their bodies change while they are growing up. As your body changes, so does the way you feel about your physical appearance. Your body image often affects the opinion you have of yourself.

As your body matures, you may think that it draws attention to you, and you may feel uncomfortable. You may also compare yourself to your friends to see if you are 'normal'. But growing up doesn't happen at the same speed for everyone. Girls usually start changing sooner than boys. Sometimes, they suddenly put on weight as their bodies need fat to grow. On the other hand, boys notice their shoulders getting wider and their voices getting deeper. These changes usually take place over two to five years.

Media images from TV, movies and advertising may also affect your self-esteem. Women and girls on TV and in magazines are usually thin while men look strong and very muscular. This can make you believe that something is wrong with you if you don't look this way. Media images may also put pressure on you to go on extreme diets or become obsessed with weight training. Remember that it's more important to exercise regularly and eat healthily than to try to change your body to fit an unrealistic image. Adverts sell fantasy and vanity, not reality.

Although you may often think that your classmates notice every single pimple on your face or every single pound you gain, this is not the case. What they notice is how you feel about yourself. You need to focus on the things you like about yourself and walk with confidence! If you like yourself and the way you look, other people will too!

5 Choose the correct word. Check in your dictionaries.

- I need to get/go on a diet. I've put on/taken in two kilos in a week.
- Look at Ann. She has grown/developed taller since the last time I saw her.
- I can't believe that's John. His shoulders have increased/grown wider and his voice has got/sounded deeper.
- Since she saw the advert, she's been/gone worried about her weight.
- She wants to start/join a gym and lose/miss some weight.

CATS

Cats is famous for being one of the longest-running shows in Broadway¹ history. It is based on T.S. Eliot's work Old Possum's Book of Practical Cats, a small collection of poems for children. The story is about a group of cats, known as the Jellicle Tribe, who live in a junkyard and gather for an annual Jellicle Ball. At the end of each Jellicle Ball, one cat is chosen to ascend to the Heaviside Layer, a sort of cat equivalent of heaven. Cats has been translated into more than 20 languages. It has also been shown in more than 30 countries and seen by more than 50 million people round the world!

One of the things that makes Cats so popular is its amazing costumes. They were designed by John Napier who won a Tony Award² for Best Costume Design in 1983. Actors in the show look like real cats, as they dance, sing and act in heavy fur and headpieces with ears and whiskers. Every cat in the show has its own costume and its own make-up which helps to project their personality.

Napier will always be remembered for the costumes that made Cats an icon of musical theatre. Cats must be seen by everyone.

Form: to be + past participle

Changing from Active Voice into Passive Voice

To change a sentence from the Active Voice into the Passive Voice:

- The object of the active sentence becomes the subject of the passive sentence.
- The active verb remains in the same tense but changes into a Passive Form.
- The subject of the active sentence becomes the agent and is either introduced with 'by' or is omitted if it is not a specific person, or it is not essential to the meaning of the sentence.

	Active	Passive
Present Simple	He designs costumes.	Costumes are designed.
Present Continuous	He is designing the costumes.	The costumes are being designed.
Past Simple	He designed the costumes.	The costumes were designed.
Present Perfect	He has designed the costumes.	The costumes have been designed.
Future Simple	He will design the costumes.	The costumes will be designed.
Modals	He must design the costumes.	The costumes must be designed.

Use

- We use the Passive Voice: to give emphasis to the action rather than the person who did it. The new theatre will be opened by the Mayor.
- When the person who does the action is unknown, unimportant or obvious from the context, we can omit it. Ferraris are made in Italy.

2 Read the article and list all the passive forms. What tense is each?

► is based – Present Simple

3 a Read the theory box.

b Write passive sentences, as in the example. What is the tense in each sentence?

- Alexandra Byrne created the Phantom of the Opera film costumes.
▶ The Phantom of the Opera film costumes were created by Alexandra Byrne.
- The company employs three hundred people.
- B & K have built a new cinema complex near the airport.
- John wrote the essay.
- The Mayor will open the new theatre this Sunday.

4 Read the theory box and complete the sentences with by or with.

by + agent (person) Penicillin was discovered by Alexander Fleming.

with + instrument/ingredient This sauce is made with fresh peppers. This rope was cut with scissors.

from + ingredient This sauce is made from fresh peppers. BUT: We don't use the agent when it is unimportant or obvious from the text. Cars are made in Germany. (unimportant)

- The walls are covered posters.
- A new book will be published Express Ltd next May.
- The dress was designed Calvin Klein.
- Wood is cut a saw.
- The film was produced Martin Scorsese.

5 Rewrite the sentences in the Passive. Mind the tenses. Omit the agent where necessary.

- They will open the opera house next week.
- They didn't invite him to the party.
- The chef is preparing the food.
- Donna Karan designed the costumes.
- The editor hasn't checked the article yet.

6 Read the theory box. Then write two passive sentences for each of the following statements.

With verbs which take two objects such as bring, send, give, offer, etc. we can have two different passive sentences depending on where emphasis is given.

He gave us two tickets. (Active Voice)

We were given two tickets. Two tickets were given to us. (Passive Voice)

- John gave me a ticket for the rock concert.
▶ I was given a ticket for the rock concert by John.
A ticket for the rock concert was given to me by John.
- Robert will bring the children some candy.
- The film producer has offered the costume designer a job.
- The director sent Laura an email.

7 Read the examples. Rewrite the following questions in the Passive Voice.

Who was the camera invented by? (Passive Voice)

Have they found the missing girl? (Active Voice)
Has the missing girl been found? (Passive Voice)

- Where did they buy the tickets?
▶ Where were the tickets bought?
- When will they stage the show?

- Did they translate the play?
- Did Andrew Lloyd Webber write the music?
- Will Steven Spielberg direct this film?
- Who designed the first pair of jeans?
- What caused the fire?
- Who invented the television?
- What do you use silver for?

8 Make passive sentences.

- A: That's a beautiful painting.

▶ It was painted by Pablo Picasso.
- A: Can I take a photograph?
B: I'm afraid (cameras/not allow) in the museum.

- A: Can I borrow your car tonight?
B: I'm afraid you can't. (It/not repair/yet)
- A: Has the parcel arrived?
B: No. (It/deliver/tomorrow)

9 Use your school textbooks. Prepare a quiz about famous people. Use the Passive Voice.

▶ Who was 'Macbeth' written by?

- 4 What's more, the stars themselves pay their publicists lots of money to make sure their pictures perfect every time.
- 5 This means that every photo we see on the cover of a magazine has been retouched.
- 6 Stomachs are flatter, legs are longer, lips are fuller and waists are

- 8 What we should do is say, "Wow! This photo is phoney!" and laugh at the fake beauty we see in media images or better still ignore them altogether.

Karen (15), Glasgow

Letters of advice are usually informal in style and are written to express sympathy and encouragement. In the first paragraph, we express our sympathy and state the reason for writing. In the main body paragraph, we give our advice and possible results. In the last paragraph, we write our closing remarks.

- 2 Read the letter. Who is it for? What advice does Claire give? What are the possible results of each piece of advice?

Dear

I just got your letter and of course I'd be happy to help you. A lot of teenagers feel the same way as you and there's nothing wrong with it. Here are some things you can do to help yourself feel better.

First of all, you shouldn't worry too much about your weight. Your body changes a lot at your age because you are growing. It might be a good idea for you to start doing some exercise. This way, you'll keep fit and healthy and help your body grow in the best way possible. Another good idea is to try to follow a healthy diet. By eating healthier foods, you will lose weight and also provide your skin with the necessary vitamins to look healthy and clear.

I hope my advice helps and everything turns out for the best. Let me know how it goes.

Claire

Grammar Revision: The Passive Voice

5  Rewrite the text into the Passive Voice.

Last week, the Mayor opened Bluemoore's new shopping mall. They gave him a tour and introduced him to some shop owners. Then, they took him to lunch in the restaurant. The Mayor told them that he had enjoyed the visit very much.

6 Think of three words/phrases you have learnt in this lesson. Make sentences using them. Tell your partner.

TRADITIONAL COSTUMES IN THE BRITISH ISLES

Irish traditional costumes make you think of Irish folk dancing. Female dancers wear a long-sleeved dress, knee-high white socks and black shoes. The colourful patterns on the dresses are based on Celtic designs.

Probably the best known traditional costume in the UK is the Scottish kilt with its distinctive tartan pattern. Kilts are pleated woollen skirts, worn only by men, and fastened in front with a special pin. A goatskin bag called a sporrán is worn around the waist and a cloak is draped over one shoulder. Each clan or family has its own tartan design. The kilt is still worn on special occasions today.

What everyone recognises about the Welsh costume is its tall black hat or 'beaver hat', worn over a lace cap. Women in the past wore it with a long full skirt and a white apron. A shawl, usually red, was worn around the shoulders. The outfit was complete with black shoes and stockings, and ladies carried a basket.

Morris dancing with its traditional costumes is a familiar sight in England. These dances are performed outdoors in country villages during the summer. The dancers wear white trousers, a loose white shirt and a pad of bells around the bottom half of the leg. Their hats are decorated with ribbons and flowers, and they wave handkerchiefs in the air as they dance.

1 Check the words in bold in the texts in the Word List. Find them in the pictures.

2 Listen Look at the pictures (A-D). Which of the costumes are worn when people dance? Listen, read and say.

3 Read the text and answer the questions. Write I for (Ireland), S for (Scotland), W for (Wales) and E for (England). Compare with your partner. Which costume ...

- 1 has got special ancient patterns on it?
- 2 has a different design for each family?
- 3 is made of wool?
- 4 has got bells on it?
- 5 is famous for its special hat?

4 Choose a costume and describe it to your partner. Explain your choice.

5 ICT Project: Work in groups. Collect information, then write a short paragraph about a traditional costume in Russia. Illustrate it with drawings or pictures. Write:

- what material it is made of
- what it consists of
- its origins
- where/when people wear it nowadays

eco Clothes

- 1    In one minute, write as many words related to clothes as you can think of. Compare with a partner.

► dress, skirt, trousers, etc.

- 2 Look at the labels on the clothes you're wearing. What fabrics are they made of?

- 3 What do you know about eco clothes? What else would you like to know about them? Write three questions.

- 4   Read the text. Make derivatives of the words in brackets. Does the text answer your questions from Ex. 3?

Take a look at the clothes you are wearing. Are they made from natural fabrics such as cotton, linen or silk, or from synthetic fabrics, like nylon or polyester? Which type of fabric do you think is more 1) (environment) friendly, natural or synthetic? You may be surprised by the answer!

- 5    Listen to and read the text again. Tell your partner three things you found interesting in the text.

Most people believe that natural fabrics are 2) (good) for the environment than synthetic ones, but this isn't always true. For example, while it only takes 500 g of cotton to make one T-shirt, it takes 150 g of pesticide to grow the cotton in the first place! Then, the cotton may be treated with all kinds of chemicals to change the colour. 3) (fortunate), all of these chemicals end up as waste, which contaminates¹ our rivers and soil.

So what is the best thing to do? Well, when it comes to buying new clothes these days you don't have to worry, as you can 4) (simple) choose to buy organic! This means buying clothes that are produced in a way that causes as little harm to the environment as possible. Here are some of the 5) (differ) options on offer.

Bamboo clothing is as soft as cashmere and allows your skin to 6) (breath). It also keeps you cool in hot weather and warm in cold weather.

Flax

grows more 7) (quick) than cotton and needs less chemicals to produce it.

Eco Fleece

is a kind of polyester from recycled plastic bottles. At the 8) (recycle) centre, the plastic is washed, chopped and turned into flakes, which are then melted, made into fibres and woven into cosy pullovers.

It doesn't take a lot of effort to be naturally 9) (fashion), so why not give it a try!

¹makes something dirty and harmful

3 famine

4 child labour

5 poverty

6 endangered species

7 global warming

1 Look at the pictures. What are these words in Russian?

2 Read the texts. Match them to four of the pictures. Which words helped you?

A Our planet is getting hotter and hotter. This causes weather to change, sea levels to rise, ice caps to melt, and animals and plants to die. If we try, we can reduce the greenhouse gases that we put into the atmosphere which make the Earth warmer. We can save on electricity by turning off the lights when we don't need them. We can also save energy by taking the bus, riding a bike or walking. Every little bit helps.

B In some countries, there are just too many people to feed. It hardly rains, so crops can't grow and animals die. Countries should help by sending food, tools and other things to help these people have better lives.

C In some families, everybody has to work or there won't be enough food to eat. Governments should support these families. They should also set up schools so that children can get an education that will help them find jobs when they are older.

D Animals' habitats are being destroyed. Also, lots of people hunt even when they are not allowed to. Governments should protect areas where animals live and hunters should be sent to prison.

- 2 I didn't know such things existed!

Psychic Animals

Hours before the huge tsunami off the coast of Sumatra reached land, some people noticed that the animals started acting strangely. For example, the elephants made lots of noise and decided to run to higher ground just before the waves hit. In the days that followed, wardens at Sri Lanka's Yala National Park were very busy looking for their animals and were surprised to find nearly all of them alive. So, did the animals know what was about to happen? If so, then this could mean that animals are capable of predicting natural disasters.

Many animals have much better hearing than human beings. They can hear certain noises at great distances. Others have sensitive feet, enabling them to feel vibrations in the ground. Migrating birds can sense changes in atmospheric pressure when they fly. Moreover, animals that live in groups sometimes have special cries to warn the others when danger is near.

Although we don't know for sure, animals may know more than we think. So if your pet starts acting strangely, maybe you should take notice. They could be trying to tell you something!

- 3  What methods do you think people in the past used to predict the weather? Listen and read to find out.

Red sky at night, shepherd's delight ... Red sky in the morning, shepherd's warning!

We all hope for warm and sunny weather at the weekend or during our holidays. The majority of our planned activities are based on what the weather will be like, so it is important to know ahead of time what to expect. These days, meteorologists, with the help of modern day technology, are able to use satellite information to tell us what the weather forecast will be all around the world.

It wasn't always so easy, though. In the old days people that relied on the weather in order to do their job needed to find ways to predict what might happen. Sailors and farmers began developing techniques to figure out what the winds might do or whether any rain might be on the way. They used everything around them, including watching the clouds, observing the behaviour of animals and inspecting plants and the soil.

Over the years many sayings, rhymes, anecdotes and stories were developed to help people prepare themselves for weather events. Many of these sayings are still used today and seem to be accurate in predicting some weather events.

So, next time you want to plan a weekend away, make sure you check out the sky the night before and watch your family pet to see if the weather will be agreeable or not!

Comparing pictures

Then say:

Essays providing solutions to problems

- 1   Match the suggestions to the results. Which ideas are mentioned in the text in Ex. 2? Listen, read and check.

Suggestions

- 1 Ban cars from city centres.
- 2 Make drivers pay a tax for driving into the city.
- 3 Improve public transport.
- 4 Build car parks outside city limits.
- 5 Promote car-pooling (drivers take turns driving others into the city).

Results

- a People will think twice about using their cars if it costs them money.
- b People will choose to use buses, trams or trains; there will be less traffic, and less pollution.
- c Drivers will leave their cars outside the city; there will be fewer cars being driven in the city.
- d Traffic will be reduced. For example, instead of four people driving four cars, there will be one car with four people in it.
- e There will be no cars at all; it will be safer and healthier for people who work and live in the city centre.

- 2 Read the theory box, then read the essay again. What is the writer's opinion? In which paragraph does he mention it?

Essays providing solutions to problems are normally written in a formal style, and so you should avoid using colloquial expressions, short forms or personal language. In the first paragraph we state the problem. In the main body paragraphs, we write our suggestions supported by possible results. We write our suggestions in separate paragraphs. In the conclusion, we summarise our suggestions.

What can we do to reduce traffic in our city?

Heavy traffic is one of the most serious problems that our cities have to deal with nowadays. What can we do, then, to reduce traffic in our city centres?

To begin with, it is important to improve public transport and to encourage people to use it to commute to work and to school. The result would be fewer cars in the city and consequently fewer traffic jams.

Another solution would be to encourage people to participate in car sharing programmes. This means several employees would share one car to work instead of each coming in their own car. Consequently, this would reduce the number of cars on the streets.

Finally, it would be a good idea to create more cycling lanes. If this was done, people would be encouraged to cycle instead of taking their car.

To sum up, there are many ways to reduce traffic in the city. Applying just some of these ideas would result in a lot less traffic in our cities.

- 3 a Read the table. Find examples in the essay in Ex. 2. Say these phrases in Russian.

To introduce suggestions: To begin/start with, One way to, Another solution would be, Another way to ... would be ...

To express effect: thus, therefore, as a result, consequently, so, as a consequence

To conclude: All in all, To sum up, All things considered

- b  Replace some of the examples in the text with suitable alternatives from the table.

Co-ordinate conjunctions

- 4  Read the theory in the box and match each structure to a description a-c. Then, join sentences 1-4 using co-ordinate conjunctions.

We use co-ordinate conjunctions to link ideas of equal weight.
both ... and ... I like both rock and pop music.
either ... or ... We can have the party either on Friday or on Saturday.
neither ... nor ... Neither the buses nor the trains in my town are very efficient.

- a both of two things are OK b each of two ideas is possible

c both of two things are bad

- 1 Factories pollute the water. Factories pollute the air.
- 2 You can reuse old things. You can recycle old things.
- 3 You shouldn't leave your computer or TV on when you leave the house.
- 4 You can walk to work. You can ride a bicycle to work.

► Factories pollute both the air and the water.

- 5   Match the suggestions to the results. Then, listen and say which ideas Sally mentions in the conversation.

What are we going to do with all this litter?

Suggestions

- 1 Fine people who litter.
- 2 Get young people involved in clean-up programmes.
- 3 Set up recycling schemes in your area.
- 4 Only buy products with biodegradable¹ packaging.

¹ things that can break down or decompose on their own.

Results

- a If people know that they will have to pay if they litter, they will stop doing it.
- b This way landfill sites will not become so full.
- c They will become interested in keeping parks and their neighbourhoods clean and tidy.
- d Household rubbish will be put to good use and the amount of garbage will be greatly reduced.

Writing

Highland Coos

Pet the COO!

When you think of Scotland, the first animal that probably comes to mind is Nessie, the legendary and shy monster from Loch Ness. However, the Scottish Highlands are home to another creature which is much easier to spot: the Highland coo.

In Scotland, cows are called "coos". The Highland coo is an ancient Scottish breed with long horns, long hair and a fringe that makes it look different to other cows. Legend has it that a long time ago, a farmer wanted to impress his wife with a new variety of cow that would actually live through the long winters. The coo is also unique because it can survive on poor grazing grounds, eating plants that other animals don't.

The farmer crossed a standard Hereford cow with a longer-haired smaller cow and got one of Scotland's most popular tourist attractions!

This cute animal is also known as "shaggy coo" or "hairy coo". It has become a national symbol of Scotland and is important for farming as well as tourism.

If you take a bus tour to the Scottish Highlands, don't miss the chance to take a photograph of this animal!

1 🗣️ What is the animal in the picture? Think of three questions about it. Read, listen and see if you can answer your questions.

2 a ✍️ RNE Read the text again. Decide which of the statements (1-8) are T (true), F (false) or NS (not stated).

- 1 Nessie is a breed of Highland cow.
- 2 Highland coos are difficult to find.
- 3 The Highland coo is a 1,500-year-old breed.
- 4 Highland coos were bred to withstand difficult conditions.
- 5 The Highland coo came from two different breeds of cattle.
- 6 Winters in Scotland last for at least 5 months.

- 7 The Highland coo is one of Scotland's national symbols.
- 8 Highland coos are popular for more than one reason.

b Look up the words/phrases in bold in the Word List.

3 😊 Use the picture to describe the Highland coo. Then, tell your partner two things you found interesting about Highland coos.

4 📄 ICT Project: Collect information, then write an article for an international student magazine about an interesting animal that lives in Russia (about 110 words). Write: its name, what it looks like, what it eats, what makes it special, any other information.

Reading

1 a Look at the pictures. Have you ever seen/experienced either of these extreme weather phenomena?

b How does each extreme weather phenomenon occur? Read through and check.

1 Tornadoes

Tornadoes are one of nature's most violent storms, and they happen in various parts of the world. They can form at any time of the year, although many occur in the spring.

B)

A tornado is a spinning, whirling wind. When it meets with cold air it takes the shape of a long funnel or tube, reaching down from a large cloud. It is formed when warm air near the earth's surface rises and meets with cold air. When the weather conditions are right, this warm air starts to twist as it rises, getting faster and stronger. It is a bit like watching water disappear down the plughole in your bathtub. If this huge, twisting rope of air hits the ground, it may cause great damage. Tornadoes can reach speeds of more than 250 mph, ripping roofs from houses, uprooting trees, and tossing heavy objects like cars in the air.

C)

In 1971, a meteorologist named Theodore Fujita developed a scale to show how strong tornadoes are. His scale goes from F0 to F5. It doesn't calculate strength based on wind speeds but the damage a tornado causes to homes and other buildings.

Hail

Hailstones are lumps of ice. They can be as small as peas or as big as cricket balls! In Kansas, USA, a hailstone fell that was 44.5 centimetres across!

E)

Hail is formed when raindrops start to fall. Before they reach the ground, they are blown up into the clouds again by strong winds. There they freeze into balls of ice and the wind in the clouds bounces them up and down. As the frozen raindrops rise and fall like this, they get even more thickly covered in ice from the water inside the clouds. Eventually, they get so heavy that they fall to the ground as hail.

F)

When big hailstones fall, they make quite a noise hitting roofs and pavements. Cars and buildings are damaged, and plants and crops are destroyed. Driving during a hailstorm is also very dangerous, as the roads become slippery.

5 THINK! What is the most commonly used means of transport in Russia? How do you prefer to travel? Why? Discuss in groups.

Full Steam Ahead!

Nowadays, there are so many means of transport, from bicycles and buses to sports cars and jet airplanes, that 1) (travel) are spoilt for choice. In fact, most of us don't even think about how we travel; plane or train, it doesn't matter. Because, at the end of the day, it's just about getting from one place to the other.

There are, however, some means of transport that have made an 2) (impress) on people and have taken their place in history. One means of transport that truly won the hearts of many Americans was the river steamboat. A steamboat, as its name indicates, is a boat that is powered by steam. The steam rotates a paddlewheel or 3) (propel) that in turn causes the boat to move forward.

In the 18th century, there were many attempts to build better vessels, but it wasn't until 1807 that the first 4) (success) steamboat, The Clermont, made a commercial voyage. These riverboats became popular within the next few years and were used to transport passengers and merchandise on the major rivers of America. The Mississippi River was especially known for its riverboats, and Mark Twain celebrated three steamboats in his book "Life on the Mississippi".

Steamboats have now disappeared from most 5) (America) rivers, but they have become a symbol of the Mississippi River. Many people think of these boats when they hear the name Mississippi.

6) (fortunate), a small number of them are being used today to offer river cruises so that people can get a feel of what it's like to travel by steamboat.

6 THINK!  Look at the picture again and listen to the music extract. Where are you? What are you doing? How do you feel? Tell your partner.

5 ICT Project: Work in groups. Choose an important river that runs through a city in Russia. Collect information, then write an article for the school magazine. Say where it begins/ends its journey, which places it flows through and why it is important. Illustrate your article with pictures.

London would not be London without the River Thames. It flows 215 miles across the English countryside and then through the heart of the great city before it reaches the sea. The Thames has played an 1) (extreme) important part in making England what it is today.

England had very few roads in the past, so the Thames provided a major highway between London and many parts of the country. People could also send supplies of food and other goods to and from London by boat. In times of war, London was protected from sea attacks because they built castles and forts at the mouth of the river. People from the London area got their 2) (drink) water from the Thames, and 3) (thirst) cows and sheep were a common sight along its banks.

With the 4) (industry) Revolution in the 18th century, the Thames became one of the busiest waterways in the world. Factories made and exported goods of all kinds. So people became rich and many of them built 5) (beauty) houses along the banks of the river. The 6) (fame) writer Charles Dickens spent part of his 7) (child) there and later wrote about the Thames in his books.

Today, the Thames has become a symbol of London, just as much as Big Ben or Buckingham Palace. If you take a stroll along its banks, you'll have a day full of 8) (please) surprises. You can admire bridges built in many 9) (differ) architectural styles. The most famous one is probably Tower Bridge which opens up 1,000 times a year to let ships through. Or you might be lucky enough to see London's rowing event, the Oxford and Cambridge Boat Race which takes place on the river every spring. Whether you're a Londoner or a visitor, the Thames will always have something to offer you.

World monuments in DANGER

Acid rain is rain that contains particles of acid. It is mainly caused 1) burning fossil fuels. Acid rain is bad for the environment and many of the world's historic monuments are 2) damaged by it.

- The Statue of Liberty in New York was a gift 3) the French people to the American people and is a universal symbol of freedom and democracy. Millions of people visit this great monument every year. For many years now, acid rain has 4) damaging the statue and has even changed its colour.
- The Leshan Giant Buddha is located 5) the eastern side of the Min River in the Sichuan Province of China. It is 70.7 metres high. Begun in 713 AD and finished in 803 AD, the statue took people around 90 years to carve from stone. It is the world's largest stone Buddha. It 6) nearly destroyed by wind erosion and acid rain before 1963 when the Chinese government began to repair it. Nowadays, the maintenance work is still 7) progress in an effort to restore this beautiful monument.

It was built about 4,500 years 10) and is the biggest stone sculpture ever made. Every year, millions of tourists come to see the Sphinx. Unfortunately, wind, smog and acid rain are putting this wonderful monument in danger. If we want to reduce acid rain, we must burn less fossil fuels. Burning coal, oil and gas releases huge amounts of sulphur* into the atmosphere. This is what creates acid rain. The best way 11) solve the problem is to use alternative energy sources to produce electricity. Factories which use solar and wind power instead of the traditional fossil fuels can really help the environment. Another thing we can do is make cars and other vehicles more environmentally friendly. We need to stop using petrol. Instead, we can use cars 12) are electrically powered or run on some other fuel. In this way, the atmosphere will be cleaner and our monuments will stay beautiful.

* Sulphur is a yellow chemical with a strong smell.

Generation M

It's 7:30 pm at Lisa's house and she's in her room doing her homework. However, homework is just one of the things she's doing while her eyes are fixed on the computer screen. As well as studying for her Biology exam, Lisa is also listening to music, chatting with her best friend online, downloading songs and occasionally texting people on her mobile phone. "My parents keep telling me off for multi-tasking while studying, but they don't understand that it helps me concentrate," she says.

Young people today spend a lot of time using electronic media; on average, 7 hours and 38 minutes every day. That adds up to 53 hours a week, more time than most adults spend at work. But that's not all. Because young people spend so much time 'media multi-tasking', that is, using more than one type of media at the same time, they actually consume a total of 10 hours and 45 minutes of media content every day. This is the reason why they are called "the multi-tasking generation" or "Generation M".

But how do our brains deal with multi-tasking? Automatic things like walking and chatting on the phone can be done 20 at the same time, but when it comes to learning new information, multi-tasking has an impact. "Multi-tasking affects how you learn in a negative way," says Russell

Poldrack, Associate Professor of Psychology at UCLA¹.
Dividing our attention between too many activities makes 25 the knowledge we gain harder to use later on. This doesn't mean we should never multi-task, but it does mean it is not a good idea to do it while learning something new.

According to specialists, it is also essential to take time away from electronic media. "At the sound of the bell, all 30 my students reach into their bags and grab their mobile phones to text message their friends. It is as if they're afraid of silence," says Casey Roberts, a secondary school teacher. "Their MP3 players, laptops and games consoles have become extensions of themselves. I really think that 35 Generation M should take time to relax and reflect. There's life beyond the screen, and the pleasure of face-to-face communication can be neither denied nor replaced."

Specialist Schools!

The Italia Conti Academy is no ordinary school. It is Britain's oldest theatre arts school. For those who dream of a life in showbusiness, getting accepted at this school is the first step on the ladder to success as an actor, dancer or singer.

It is a private school which means the students have to pay to go there. All the students must wear a uniform and have to attend the same kind of lessons as other students do. The students have to work very hard in order to pass their GCSE* exams.

Apart from their ordinary lessons, students can choose from a wide range of classes in the performing arts. These can be anything from taking traditional ballet to modern dance, or learning to act on the stage or for television. Whatever type of show business the pupils want to work in, they are encouraged to develop as many performing skills as possible. The Italia Conti Academy, with some of the best teachers in the country, gives them the opportunity to do this. Many students perform professionally while still studying and some begin a successful career before they finish school.

Koala Family

RESCUED

"When I got the call from a family that there was a koala in their backyard, I thought 1)" These words came from Vicki Pender of the Queensland Parks and Wildlife Service. "Koala bears roam around in search of food. If they see a eucalyptus tree, 2) , regardless of where it is. When I got there it was obvious the koala was restless. I had to give her an injection 3) Just then, I heard a loud cry from a tree nearby. It was her little joey screaming for its mum!" A "joey" is what a baby koala is called. Vicki realised just then how critical it was 4) Baby koalas or joeys are completely dependent on their mums and have very specialised diets. They cannot survive 5) "At that point, I turned my attention to the baby and coaxed it out of the tree." Luckily, mum and joey were rescued and had a short stay in the animal hospital. Before long, 6) Together, they disappeared into the leaves, happy to settle in for some dinner.

For & Against essays

1 Read the theory box. Which of the topics (a-c) corresponds to a for-and-against essay?

- a The most incredible experience I've ever had.
- b What's the best way to learn vocabulary in English?
- c Credit cards: a curse or a blessing?

For-and-against essays are a type of discursive writing in which you discuss the advantages and disadvantages of a specific topic. A for-and-against essay should consist of:

- an introduction in which you present the topic, making a general remark about it without giving your opinion;
- a main body with three paragraphs in which you state and justify the arguments for and against the issue in each paragraph. Each argument is supported with justifications or examples;
- a conclusion which summarises the pros and cons and gives a balanced consideration of the topic (In my opinion/view, I believe, I think, etc.).

For-and-against essays are normally written in a formal style; therefore, you should avoid using personal language (I know, I am sure), contractions (I've got) and colloquial expressions or idioms (What's up?).

2 Read the rubric and find the key words, then answer the questions.

You have had a class discussion about the Internet as a homework tool. Your teacher has now asked you to write an essay presenting the arguments for and against it.

- 1 What type of essay should you write?
- 2 What will your essay be about?
- 3 What style should you use?
- 4 What points should you include in your essay? Discuss in pairs.

3 a  Read the essay. Copy the table and complete it. Were any of your points in Ex. 2 mentioned?

1 In our modern, high-tech society and with 24-hour access to the Internet, it's no surprise that children are using homework-help websites more and more. However, there are arguments for and against using the Internet as a homework tool.

2 First of all, we will look at how easy it is for students to find the information they need. In particular, there are many websites with high-quality school-level essays on every subject, which can be very helpful. One drawback is that it creates a temptation for students to cheat. They can 'cut-and-paste' answers, instead of reading and thinking about the subject for themselves. As a result, they will be unprepared for exams.

3 Secondly, we must consider the quantity and quality of the information. Type in any key-word into a search engine and you will see thousands, if not millions of 'hits'. However, few of these are reliable sources. Many are not written by experts and contain incorrect information. Therefore, students can become confused and misinformed.

4 Thirdly, we should think about how the Internet can help poorer students. Their school may not be able to afford libraries or many books, but online access can reduce this problem. On the other hand, some students may not have a computer with an internet connection at home on which to do their homework. Therefore, those students who cannot afford these advantages may fall behind.

5 All in all, I think that the use of the Internet as a homework tool is a welcome and useful development. Unfortunately, though, it is not free from risks and we must bear those risks in mind if we want students to get the most from the Internet.

Topic/Supporting sentences

study skills

Topic sentences

We start each main body paragraph with a topic sentence which introduces or summarises the main idea of the paragraph. This helps the reader follow your arguments. The topic sentence is followed by one or more supporting sentences which justify the argument in the topic sentence by giving reasons or examples.

- 5 Read the theory box. Find the topic sentences in the essay in Ex. 3. Which are the supporting sentences?
- 6  Work in pairs. Read the topic sentences and write supporting sentences for each. Use appropriate linkers.
- On the other hand, TV has got its disadvantages.
 - ▶ Many TV shows are violent and have storylines that are not appropriate for young people.
 - There are certain disadvantages to using mobile phones.
 - The Internet has certainly got its advantages.
 - There is no doubt that going to university helps your future.

Writing

- 7  Read the rubric. Which of the statements (1-5) are arguments for and which are arguments against? Match them to their supporting arguments (a-e).

- Your English teacher has asked you to write an essay on the advantages and disadvantages of e-learning (online, lessons) (100-110 words).
- Students can learn at their own pace.
 - It is more convenient for people who don't have time to go to lessons.
 - People can save time and money on travel.
 - It can be lonely studying alone.
 - E-learning depends too much on technology.
- Students don't have to commute to school.
 - With e-learning there is no chance to meet other people and share ideas with them.
 - People do not have to be in a certain place at a certain time.
 - People can choose when and for how long they want to study.
 - Computer problems can make people miss lessons.

Trinity College Dublin: 400 years of history

If asked what Jonathan Swift, Oscar Wilde and Samuel Beckett have in common, most people would correctly reply that they are 1) (fame) writers. But did you know that they all graduated from the oldest and most 2) (prestige) university in Ireland?

Trinity College at the University of Dublin has an interesting history. The university was founded in 1592 in the heart of Dublin, the capital of Ireland. At first, everything went well and the university grew slowly. Then, in the middle of the 17th century, life at the university became difficult because of two wars in the country. Fortunately, the university survived and from then on many wealthy families began to send their sons there for a good 3) (educate). A network allows users to share files and resources, such as printers, as well as send email to each other. - | | |
|---------------------|-------------|
| 1 snowboarding | 4 the Alps |
| 2 New Zealand | 5 splashing |
| 3 frozen waterfalls | |

Brian Potter

has been sandboarding for the past seven years. He loves it because he can do it pretty much anywhere. If there is sand, he can sandboard! He says, "I'm a real speed freak and I find nothing more exciting than to take out my board and whizz down the sand dunes." The general idea of sandboarding is the same as snowboarding. People simply strap a board to their feet and slide down a hill. Brian says, "This summer I'm going to enter a sandboarding competition. There will be around 500 entrants, from all over the world. If I finish in the top 50, I will be pretty proud."

Carla Murphy is known in certain circles as a 'zorbanaut'. This is because she spends some of her free time inside a large inflatable¹ plastic ball called a "zorb". "Zorbing is so much fun, I just can't get enough," she says. Zorbing involves rolling down a steep hill strapped inside the ball, along with up to two other people. The ball can reach speeds of up to 50 or 60 kmph if the hill is steep enough. "It's fantastic. You bounce around as if you're weightless. But it's safe, too. Even if you hit a rock, you will not get hurt, because you're totally protected from bumps and knocks by the zorb. Anyone from 6 to 60 can do it," Carla explains.

This bizarre activity originated in New Zealand and now there are centres all around the world. Carla thinks it's great. "When we start rolling, we just start laughing and we can't stop."

Paul Lynch has been practising ice climbing for several years, and he can't get enough. "My parents took me skiing in the Alps when I was a child and ever since, I've been addicted to the mountains. But if I hadn't moved to Canada a few years ago, I never would have fallen in love with ice climbing." Now, he spends most of his free time climbing ice in the Canadian Rockies. He has even climbed frozen waterfalls. "If I had a lot of money, I would never do anything else," he says. Basically, ice climbing involves swinging an axe into the ice above your head and pulling yourself up on it. "You need a good quality helmet, ropes and special boots for ice climbing; it can be dangerous if you don't have the right equipment. And of course, it's very physical, so you really have to be in good shape to stay safe," says Paul.

Harriet Bolton didn't really like sport at all until she discovered something both new and unusual. "I was listening to the radio one day when I heard something that I thought must have been a joke. The DJ was talking about underwater hockey! If this was actually a real sport, I would have to find out more about it, I thought. To my surprise, there was a local team in my area and before I knew it, I was part of it!" Underwater hockey was invented by a British diving club in 1954 and was originally called "Octopush". Players wear masks, flippers and snorkels during the game. "The rules are really simple. You just have to slide the puck into the opposing team's goal," Harriet explains. But unlike water polo, where the action takes place above the water, underwater hockey is played at the bottom of the pool. For this reason, underwater hockey is not much of a spectator sport. "If you want to watch an exciting game, you will have to choose something else. People watching from outside the pool can only see lots of splashing and flippers!" says Harriet.

1 What do you know about the FIFA World Cup? How are these people related to it?

Listen to and read the text to find out.

If you are a football fan, you are probably familiar with the FIFA World Cup. Every four years, millions of spectators watch their national teams take part in this event. And ever since 1954, when the World Cup was first televised, billions of fans have watched it on TV. Nowadays, around half of the world's population watches it. In fact, if you asked anyone to name the most important sport event in the world, they would probably say it was the FIFA World Cup.

FIFA®
World Cup

The World Cup was created in the 1930s when Jules Rimet, a French football official, came up with the idea of bringing the best football teams in the world together to play against one another for the title of World Champions. There was great enthusiasm for his idea and the first FIFA World Cup was organised in Uruguay in 1930. The host team won the first World Cup when they beat Argentina 4-2. Since then, many World Cup tournaments have been played and the competition has often surprised fans around the world.

Everyone was amazed when the USA beat England 1-0 in 1950. The 1966 World Cup surprised many fans when Italy lost 1-0 to North Korea, and Northern Ireland took everyone by surprise when they beat the host team, Spain, 1-0 in 1982. The World Cup has also made some great football players into legends. The Brazilian player, Pelé, is probably the most famous. Many people say he is the greatest player of all time. Another legend, the German player Beckenbauer, is considered one of the greatest defenders in the history of football.

Annual Subscription £25.00 per year

Same for all ages and activities?

4 Read the email. Has Alana included all the necessary points?

Mr Newtown,

I am writing to find out more information about the swimming lessons which I saw advertised in this week's Student Direct.

First of all, could you send me some information for beginners? For example, how old does a child have to be to join the club and what time are new swimmers accepted on Friday evenings? I have a five-year-old brother, and I was wondering if he could start having swimming lessons at your club this year.

Secondly, would it also be possible for you to send me a timetable of the sessions? Finally, could you also tell me if the annual subscription fee is the same for everybody?

Thank you in advance for your help. I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours sincerely,
Alana Holmes

5 a Read the box. Find examples in the email in Ex. 4. Then turn the direct questions into indirect ones, as they would appear in a formal letter.

Requesting Information

To request information, you can use direct or indirect questions.

Direct questions are quite common in informal letters. Some of them begin with a question word such as what, who, when, how etc. How far is the hotel from the beach? Do we need to bring our own food?

Most indirect questions are formed with modals such as could, would, etc. and are normally used in semi-formal or formal letters. Could you please let me know how far the hotel is from the beach?

You use if/whether in an indirect question when there is no question word in the direct question. Do we need to bring our own food? I would like to know if/whether we need to bring our own food.

- How much is the monthly subscription?
▶ Could you please tell me how much the monthly subscription is?
- Where do the lessons take place?
- How many pupils are there in each class?
- Do we have to buy our own equipment?
- Can we borrow more than five books from the library?

- b  Use the information in the advert as well as your own ideas to turn the email into a telephone conversation between Alana Holmes and Rory Newtown from the swimming club.

Writing

1 🎧 Read the title and the first verse in the song. What is the song about? Listen, read and check.

1 🎧 Look at the title and the key phrases. What is the song about? Read, listen and check.

- play their part • in need • make a difference
- good deed • spare time • find a way
- seem fair • give away • feed the poor

Something about you!

I see you every morning
You always look so nice
But how can I approach you?
How can I break the ice?

There's just something about you
You stand out in a crowd
One day I'll have the confidence
To say these words out loud.

I want to get to know you
But every time I try
My confidence escapes me
I always feel so shy.

I want to ask you something
But I don't know what to say
My palms sweat and I turn red
I have to look away.

Change The World Today

Everyone can play their part
To help all those in need,
You can make a difference
With just a small good deed.
You might not have much money
Or much spare time to give,
But you can still help others
You can change the way they live.

Give something to charity
You can find a way,
You can help so easily
Change the world today.

We have far more than we need
Which doesn't seem quite fair,
You have books that you don't read
And clothes you never wear.
Someone else could use the things
You don't need anymore,
Little things you give away
Can help to feed the poor.

2 How does the singer feel towards the person the song is about?

2 What does the song suggest we should do to change the world?

From children through to adulthood
We change at every turn,
As life brings opportunities
And lessons we can learn.

*Life truly is a miracle
We're changing day to day,
Our looks, our personalities
The things we do and say.
We change the way we speak and act
The way we think and feel,
As we move through life's cycle
On that ever-spinning wheel.*

The world is bright and new,
So many possibilities
There's nothing we can't do!

Why don't you look like models do?

*Don't get stressed, don't get obsessed
Forget your looks, you know it's best
What matters more is who you are
Just be yourself, 'cause you're a star!*

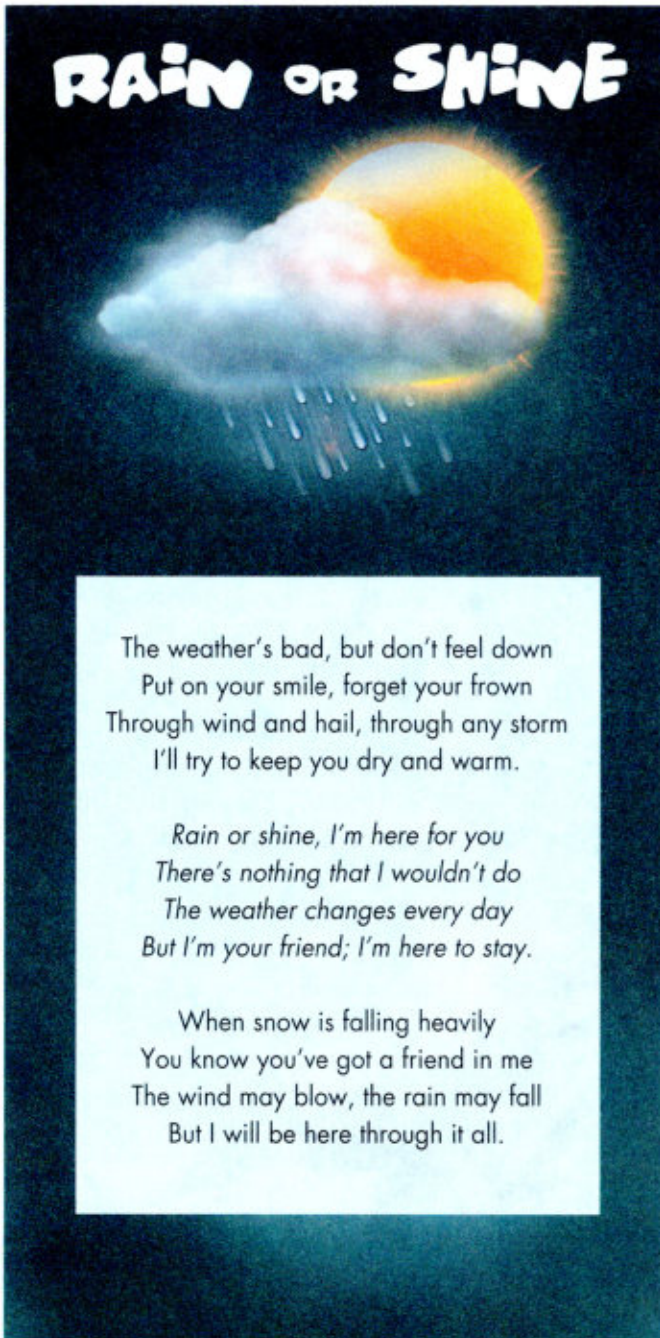

The mirror shows the outer you
And what's inside is good and true
Don't change your looks, don't run and hide
Your beauty comes from the inside.

Just hang on to your self-esteem
The perfect body is a dream,
So put aside your vanity
And just enjoy reality.

There's nothing that I wouldn't do
The weather changes every day

Let's go on a journey, escape for a while
We'll just take our time and we'll travel in style
We'll see distant landscapes, we'll try out new things
And see what adventures our holiday brings.

The world is our oyster, that's what people say
We can go anywhere, let's leave today
We'll visit the places we've seen on TV
The whole world is waiting, there's so much to see!

So many places for us to explore
Places that we've never heard of before
We'll live like the natives, we'll learn all their ways

On my brand new mobile phone.
I take my laptop everywhere
I use it all the time
And thanks to wireless Internet
I can always be online.

*My friends say I'm a tech addict
But even if they're right
Technology's the future
And the future's looking bright.*

I love the latest music
But I never buy CDs
It makes more sense to go online
And download MP3s.
My iPod and my games console
Are things I'd hate to lose
My gadgets keep me entertained
Any time I choose.

What advice would you give to a foreigner visiting Russia for the first time?

Spotlight on Russia gets familiar with social etiquette in Russia

Socialising

When Visiting Someone's Home

If you are invited to someone's house for dinner or for a visit, you should remember to take a gift with you. This can be a cake, a box of chocolates or sweets, a bunch of flowers or a bottle of wine. If there is a small child in the family, you should also buy him or her a small gift. If you decide to take flowers, give an odd number.

You should dress casually for dinner in someone's home. When you arrive at the house, you will be asked to remove your shoes and put on a pair of house slippers.

Whenever you go to someone's house, it's polite to compliment the host. In Russia, though, try not to compliment anything specific, because the host may want to give it to you! Also, make sure that you don't cross your legs so that the sole of your foot is showing, or put your feet on the furniture. This is very bad manners and will offend people.

When it comes to food and drink, you should never refuse anything that is offered. This is also very bad manners. Finally, don't forget to thank your host.

When TRAVELLING

On public transport, as in most countries, it is polite to give your seat to someone who needs it more than you, such as a mother with children or an elderly person. Also, make sure your feet remain on the ground and don't show the soles of your feet or put your feet on the seats. Eating on public transport is bad manners.

The usual way for men to greet each other on the street is to shake hands firmly while retaining eye contact. Looking away is rude and shows indifference. First, though, they will take off their gloves. It is very bad manners for men to shake hands while wearing gloves, no matter how cold it is.

If you are a man travelling with a woman, you should carry her bags and open doors for her. You should also leave a vehicle first so you can offer your hand to help her get out.

DISCUSS

- What other social etiquette advice would you give to a foreigner visiting Russia? Tell your partner.

ACTIVITY

Food

What are Russian restaurants like? What sort of food do Russians eat?

Spotlight on Russia goes behind the scenes in a Russian restaurant and finds out about Russian cuisine from a top chef

In general, what sort of food do Russians eat? Russian people generally eat a rich and varied diet. However, they do eat a lot of dairy products. Some of these include a thick sour cream called smetana, powdered cream cheese called tvorog and a yoghurt-like drink called kefir.

What sort of food do you serve in your restaurant?

We serve a wide variety of traditional Russian dishes. There's draniki, which are potato pancakes, salo, which is tender pork fat, pelmeni, which is pasta stuffed with pork and onions, and shashlyk, which is chicken, pork or lamb kebabs to name just a few!

Can you describe a typical meal?

Certainly. Typically you have hot and cold appetisers to start, then a soup course, followed by the main course, and then a dessert.

What sort of dishes are popular appetisers?

Well, appetisers are usually fish or meat dishes. Popular fish dishes are salmon, herring and smoked sturgeon. Of the meat appetisers, buzhenina is popular. This is lean boiled pork with spices as well as jellied tongue served with horseradish sauce.

What about the soups? I've heard of borshch, what other kinds are there?

Yes, borshch is made from beets and cabbage and is very popular. Then there's solyanka, which can be made from meat or fish or mushrooms. Both are served with sour cream. Eating soup is a Russian tradition because of the long, cold winters. Russian soups are very warming and nourishing.

What are some of your speciality main courses?

We have a big menu with lots of speciality dishes. Russians like to have a wide range of traditional dishes to choose from, but I have to say that grilled piglet, beef stroganoff, roast partridge and golubtsy, are my customers' favourites. Golubtsy is minced lamb, pork and rice wrapped in cabbage and topped with a cream sauce – delicious!

What sort of desserts do you have on the menu?

Baked apple is a popular dessert, as is fruit and berry kisel, which is a sort of sour fruit jelly. Of course, we always have a wide selection of freshly baked pies, too.

Thanks for talking to us. Now I can't wait to try all the delicious dishes you mentioned!

DISCUSS

- How often do you eat out?
- What other Russian dishes do you know?
- Do you have any traditional family recipes? How old is the tradition and what is/are the dishes?

ACTIVITIES

What is your favourite national dish? Can you cook it? Tell your partner how. Write a menu for a welcome dinner for a foreign friend, using the dishes mentioned in the interview.

Russians have been exploring space since the 1950s. In the following decades, they achieved a number of historic breakthroughs, but it all started much earlier. Three men in particular stand out as space exploration heroes.

Spotlight on Russia takes a look at the pioneers who led the way to the stars

Great Minds

Konstantin Tsiolkovsky (1857-1935)

Tsiolkovsky was known as the father of human space flight. He was a rocket scientist, an inventor and a pioneer in space research. His work contained designs for rockets with thrusters, airlocks, multi-stage boosters, satellites, space suits and even a system for providing food and air to a space colony. He was a man years ahead of his time, and it is thanks to him that Russia was the first nation to cross the final frontier.

Sergei Korolyov (1906-1966)

He was a scientist and rocket engineer that put the first satellite, Sputnik 1, into orbit around the Earth in 1957. He was also the person responsible for Sputnik 2, carrying the dog Laika into space, and landing the first probe, Luna 2, on the Moon. Above all, he was the man in charge of the Vostok and Voskhod space programs which successfully took the first man into space in 1961. These programs allowed the first space walk and led the way for all manned space flights after that. Korolyov was a legend in his own time and in ours.

Yuri Gagarin (1934-1968)

On 12th April 1961, he became the first human to go into space and the first man to orbit the Earth. The cosmonaut's first and only space flight in Vostok 1 lasted 108 minutes, but will be remembered forever. He became an ambassador for Russia, travelling the world and telling people of Russian achievements in space.

DISCUSS

- Would you like to go into space? Why (not)?
- What do you think about space tourism?
- What fields of science should a person study to become a scientist? A cosmonaut?

ACTIVITY

Choose one of the people in the text and tell your partner about his achievements. Expand this biography to include more details.

Special Interests

Throughout history, people all over the world have expressed their personality and status through their clothes. Recently, young Russians have become interested in studying national costumes.

Spotlight on Russia stops by a Moscow school where the national costume is a very popular subject

A lot of the girls here are part of the 'Grace' fashion theatre. It is the girls' favourite school club. They come here after classes to learn about designing clothes and dressmaking. They start with the designs and finish with a fashion show of the finished dresses. It's hard to believe that the masterpieces presented in the shows have been created by schoolgirls! National costumes have been the focus of attention in recent years, not only for practical work but also for school project work. National costumes, like all clothes, have to protect the wearer from environmental conditions and should look nice. However, all costumes also have a social function. They show people the wearer's role in society, their rank or social status, as well as other details such as age or marital status. However, not all of the meanings of the individual details and elements of the costume are known today.

One project about Russian national costumes completed by students at the school was called 'The Traditions of Ethnic Motifs in Russian National Costumes'. It included several women's costumes from different social levels. The presentation displayed the colourful costumes and also presented traditional Russian musical instruments like the balalaika. Through school projects like this, many of the students have the chance to see that national costume is not only one of the most precious legacies of folk art and social history, but also one of the richest resources for studying ethnicity and its links with national identity.

DISCUSS

- Do you find national costumes interesting? Why (not)?
- Have you ever worn a national costume?
- Where could you wear a national costume? How do you think you would feel?

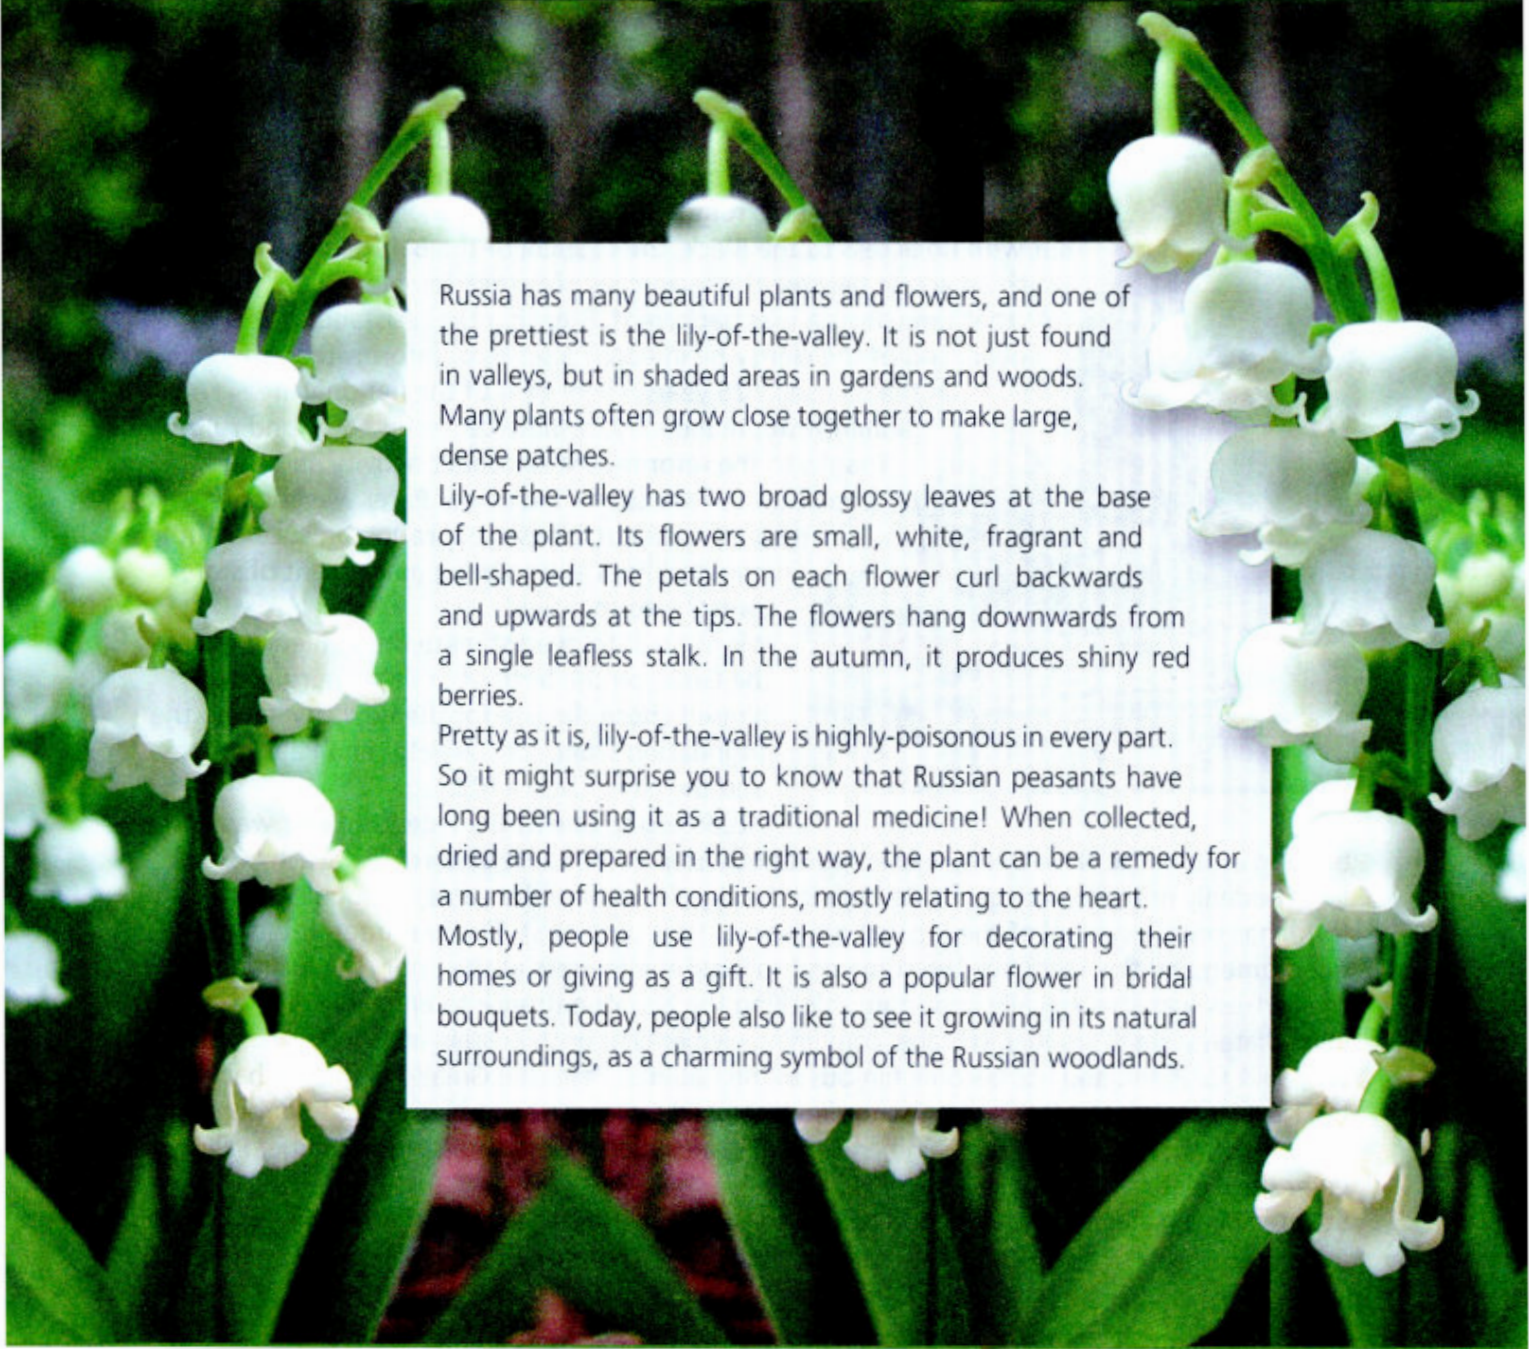

ACTIVITY

Do some research on the national costume for a man or a woman from your region and find or sketch a picture. Send it to us and explain as many of the different elements as you can.

It's pretty and has a beautiful fragrance. It's also dangerously poisonous – but sometimes a useful medicine!

Spotlight on Russia goes in search of the Lily-of-the-Valley

Natural World

Russia has many beautiful plants and flowers, and one of the prettiest is the lily-of-the-valley. It is not just found in valleys, but in shaded areas in gardens and woods. Many plants often grow close together to make large, dense patches.

Lily-of-the-valley has two broad glossy leaves at the base of the plant. Its flowers are small, white, fragrant and bell-shaped. The petals on each flower curl backwards and upwards at the tips. The flowers hang downwards from a single leafless stalk. In the autumn, it produces shiny red berries.

Pretty as it is, lily-of-the-valley is highly-poisonous in every part. So it might surprise you to know that Russian peasants have long been using it as a traditional medicine! When collected, dried and prepared in the right way, the plant can be a remedy for a number of health conditions, mostly relating to the heart.

Mostly, people use lily-of-the-valley for decorating their homes or giving as a gift. It is also a popular flower in bridal bouquets. Today, people also like to see it growing in its natural surroundings, as a charming symbol of the Russian woodlands.

DISCUSS

- Do you know any other traditional herbal medicines?

ACTIVITY

Go on a nature walk in your local park or woodland and make a note of the plants you see. Can you see a lily-of-the-valley?

Cultural Exchange

There are 31 historical and natural monuments in Russia that are protected by UNESCO. The central part of St Petersburg is among them. Let's have a look at this great city and its founder Peter the Great.

Spotlight on Russia learns about Peter the Great and his creation

Peter I, Peter the Great, was the Tsar of Russia from 1682 to 1725. He was one of Russia's greatest statesmen, organizers, and reformers.

At the beginning of Peter's reign, Russia was territorially a huge power, but with no access to the Black, the Caspian or the Baltic Seas. To win such an access became the main goal of Peter's foreign policy.

At that time, Russia was backward. Breaking the resistance of the boyars and of the clergy he initiated a series of reforms that affected, in the course of 25 years, every field of the national life – administration, industry, commerce, technology, and culture.

Thanks to the reforms, the economic activity and the population of the towns increased. Peter was the first ruler of Russia to sponsor education on secular (not religious) lines and to bring an element of state control into that field.

It is difficult to overestimate the influence of Peter the Great on the birth of St Petersburg. Peter himself chose the site for the new city, laying the foundation stone for the Peter and Paul Fortress and the city in May 1703.

According to one of the legends, Peter was boating around the Neva Delta, inspecting various islands. He came ashore on Zayachy Ostrov and suddenly noticed an eagle flying high in the sky above him (the eagle, in double-headed form, has been a symbol of the Russian government for centuries). This was interpreted as a good omen and the Tsar gave the command to build the fortress at this spot. The location of the fortress was strategically important, blocking the Neva's entrance to enemy fleets. Immediately a small wooden cottage, combining elements of both Russian and Dutch architecture, was built for Peter, and has become famous as the Cabin of Peter the Great. On the left bank of the Neva, opposite the Cabin, the Tsar ordered to build a park with marble statues and fountains. In the park, that was called the Summer Garden, stands the modest, two-storey Summer Palace of Peter the Great.

St Petersburg buildings of that period belong to the World Heritage and are protected by UNESCO.

DISCUSS

- Have you ever been to St Petersburg? What impressed you most?
- We learn history visiting such places, don't we? Why is it important to know history of your country?
- Do you think Peter I was a great Russian statesman? What makes you think so?

ACTIVITY

Find out about another World Heritage Site in Russia and tell the class about it.

Being both students and visitors to Russia, it goes without saying that we are always keen to learn more about Russian schools.

Education

Spotlight on Russia learns lessons about the Russian education system

In Russia children begin school at the age of six or seven. They spend four years at primary school, five years at secondary school and two years at senior school.

School normally starts at 8:30am and finishes at 3pm, though this may vary slightly from school to school. Young students have 4-5 lessons a day and older students have up to 7 lessons a day. This means that the school week can be either 5 or 6 days long. In large cities where there are a lot of students attending the same school, there are sometimes separate morning and afternoon sessions. There are usually around 20-30 students in a class.

There is a wide range of school subjects for students aged 12-17. These include Russian, literature, maths (including algebra and geometry), history, social science, biology, geography, physics, ICT, chemistry and others.

English is the main and most popular foreign language, although students can also learn Spanish, German or French. Almost all classes involve the use of computers and media technology. Some schools may specialise in certain subjects – maths and science, for example. There are also vocational schools that train students in a specialised profession, such as music or dance, alongside their usual lessons. The school year is usually divided into four terms with three breaks. School starts on 1st September and finishes on 31st May. The summer holiday starts on 1st June and lasts for three months but Year 9 and Year 11 students take their exams in June. The Russian National Exam is a final exam for school-leavers. It's a national test combining school-leaving exams and entrance exams for university.

DISCUSS

- Do you know how the Russian education system differs from any foreign ones?
- What do you think are the strong and weak points of the Russian education system?
- What are you proud of in your school?
- What's your favourite place in school? Why?

ACTIVITY

Ask your parents about the national school system in their time. What has changed in Russian schools? Write to us and say what you think about the changes.

Pastimes

Summer is coming, it's the time for every school student to enjoy their hobbies and favourite pastimes. Reading is what they all are going to have in common in summer. Let's go to the library and ask the librarian what classical Russian authors are most popular with 8 Year students. The answer is 'Ivan Sergeevich Turgenev'.

Spotlight on Russia reads an extract from one of the most famous short novels by Turgenev – First Love.

Translated by C. Garnett

Chapter II

On that day I went as usual into the garden, and happened to go close to the low fence which separated our garden from the neighbours'. Suddenly I heard a voice; I looked across the fence, and was thunder-struck. ...

A few steps from me on the grass between the green raspberry bushes stood a tall slender girl in a striped pink dress. Four young men were close round her, and she was slapping them by turns on the forehead with those small grey flowers, the name of which I don't know, though they are well known to children. The flowers form little bags, and burst open with a pop when you strike them against anything hard. The young men presented their foreheads so eagerly, and in the gestures of the girl, there was something so fascinating, imperious, mocking, and charming, that I almost cried out with admiration and delight. I thought, I would give everything in the world at once only to find myself one of these young men. I forgot everything; I stared at the graceful shape and lovely arms and the slightly disordered fair hair. ...

'Young man, hey, young man,' said a voice suddenly near me: 'is it allowed to stare so at unfamiliar young ladies?'

Near me, the other side of the fence, stood a man with close-cropped black hair, looking ironically at me. At the same instant the girl also turned towards me. ... I caught sight of big grey eyes in a bright mobile face, and the whole face suddenly quivered and laughed, there was a flash of the white teeth, a funny lifting of the eyebrows. I blushed and fled to my own room, threw myself on the bed, and hid my face in my hands. My heart was fairly leaping; I was greatly ashamed and overjoyed; I felt an excitement I had never known before.

After a rest, I brushed my hair, washed, and went downstairs to tea. The image of the young girl floated in front of me, my heart was no longer leaping, but was full of a sort of sweet oppression.

'What's the matter?' my father asked me all at once.

I was on the point of telling him all about it, but I controlled myself, and only smiled to myself. As I was going to bed, I rotated — I don't know why — three times on one leg, pomaded my hair, got into bed, and slept like a log all night.

MODULE 8

Conditionals: type 0/1 — Придаточные предложения условия (тип 0/1)

- Conditionals (type 0) используются для выражения общепринятых или научных фактов. В этом типе придаточных предложений условия можно использовать when вместо if.

Придаточное с if	Главное предложение
If/When + present simple	Present Simple
If/When yellow is mixed with blue we have green.

- Conditionals (type 1) используются для описания реальной или вероятной ситуации в будущем.

Придаточное с if	Главное предложение
If + Present Simple	Future Simple, Imperative, can/must/may + infinitive
If Tom comes home early, he will have time for reading. If Tom comes home early, we can go to the cinema.

- Если придаточное условия стоит перед главным предложением, они разделяются запятой. Если главное предложение стоит перед придаточным с if, запятая не ставится.

Примечание. С придаточными предложениями условия (тип 1) используется unless (если не) + глагол в утвердительной форме (= if + глагол в отрицательной форме).

I won't tell you anything unless you promise to keep it a secret. (I won't tell you anything if you don't promise to keep it a secret.)

Conditionals: type 2 & 3 — Придаточные предложения условия (тип 2 & 3)

- Conditionals (type 2) используются для описания воображаемой ситуации, которая маловероятна для настоящего и будущего. В придаточном предложении с if в 1-м и 3-м лице единственного числа употребляется как were, так и was. Также используется структура If I were you ... (на твоём/вашем месте) для того, чтобы дать совет.

Придаточное с if	Главное предложение
If + Past Simple/ Past Continuous	would/could/might + infinitive
If Pete lost his job, things would be very difficult for this family. If I were you, I wouldn't buy those shoes. If they weren't making so much noise, I could concentrate on my work.

- Conditionals (type 3) используются для описания нереальной ситуации в прошлом. Они также используются для выражения сожаления или критики по поводу невыполненного в прошлом действия.

Придаточное с if	Главное предложение
If + Past Simple/ Past Perfect Continuous	would/could/might + perfect infinitive
If our team hadn't lost the match, it would have won the championship. If they had been driving more carefully, they wouldn't have had an accident.

Reading aloud

When you read a text aloud, pay attention to:

- speed – don't go too fast or too slow;
- clarity – speak in a loud clear voice;
- pronunciation – say the difficult words to yourself as you read the text silently;
- intonation – read with expression, not a monotone;
- rhythm – when you read with rhythm, the text flows; mind stressed and unstressed words in a sentence

Model (Task 1)

Listen to someone reading the text. Evaluate her performance.

Module 1

Nobody has to be the victim of bullying. Bullying is a big problem, but there are ways to deal with it. The most common advice is to ignore the bully as much as possible and this is usually the best thing to do. Bullies want attention, and the less attention you give them the better. Don't get upset, don't fight back. Try to leave the situation as quickly as possible. Of course, this is easier to do if you have friends around you. So, if you see someone being bullied, be a friend. Go up to him and invite him to join you, then help him walk away from the situation. It's always important, though, to tell an adult. That way, they can help too.

Practice (Task 1)

You need to read the text aloud. You have 1.5 minutes to read the text silently, and then be ready to read it aloud. Remember that you will not have more than 2 minutes for reading aloud.

Module 3

Charles Richard Drew was born on the 3rd of June, 1904, in Washington, D.C., USA. His father was a carpet layer and his mother was a teacher. He was a skilled athlete and a very good student, and won an athletics scholarship to university. He later went to medical school and earned an MD. After that, he continued with graduate studies, becoming the first African-American to earn a Doctor of Medical Science degree. During his research, he discovered a new way of preserving blood, which made blood transfusions work better. He also set up the first large blood banks in the United States. His discoveries saved many lives. Tragically, he was killed in a car accident in 1950 when he was only forty-five.

Module 5

A waterspout is essentially a tornado which occurs over a body of water. During a storm, swirling currents of air pick up water and lift it into the air, creating a visible tube or 'spout'. They are often spectacular: dark and twisting, connecting the sea and the clouds. Most waterspouts occur in the tropics, but they are quite common in Canada's Great Lakes region as well. Normally, they are not as destructive as tornados, but they can pose a threat to boats, swimmers – and fish! Waterspouts are strong enough to pull small marine animals out of the water and up into the spout. These luckless creatures can even be carried inland inside the cloud, at last falling on the bemused inhabitants of towns and villages.

Module 7

Summerhill School in the UK is rather unusual, because it has almost no rules. It was founded in 1921 according to a philosophy of reduced authority. The idea is that children develop in a more natural way if they have control over their own upbringing. Summerhill is private, and parents must pay fees for their children to attend. It's also a boarding school, which means the pupils are accommodated at the school. There are around 80 pupils at Summerhill and 15 staff. Pupils can go to whichever lessons they like, and vote on school decisions. Teachers and students have a friendly relationship. However, the school has always been controversial, with critics saying it fails to educate children adequately or prepare them for the real world.
